22 Township Residents on Committee To Work for Municipal Consolidation

A group of 22 Township residents has formed the Princeton Township Citizens Committee for Consolidation. A similar group of Borough residents is now being assembled by Ingrid Reed and William H. Walker II and names will be announced shortly.

The Township group is led by Martha Hartmann and Stanley C. Smoyer. Mrs. Hartmann, 178 Moore, has been active in a wide variety of community activities including the Paul Robeson Center and the Princeton Youth Fund. Mr. Smoyer, who lives at 86 Olden Lane, was one of the initiators of the present consolidation movement and served on the 1976 Joint Consolidation Study Committee and the 1965 Dilley Committee on consolidation. Mrs. Hartmann is a Democrat, Mr. Smoyer a Republican.

Other members: Elaine Bezilla, 228 State Road, active in the League of Women Voters; Jay Bleiman, 75 Clover Lane, former Democratic mayor of the Township; Mary Bliss, 128 Bayard Lane, long active in Democratic political affairs; Harriet Bryan, 100 Gulick Road, formerly on the Township Zoning Board and a League of Women Voters officer.

Marjorie Blaxill, 270 Lambert Drive, head of the Local Assistance Board and associated with several community activities including the Princeton Nursery School; Dean Chace, 36 Drakes Corner Road; a member of the Consolidation Study Commission and formerly a Republican member of Township Committee; Nancy Di Meglio, 22 Terhune Road, former president of the Parent Teacher Organization.

Helen Fairbanks, 70 Valley Road, a member of the 1976 Joint Consolidation Study Committee; Fannie Floyd, 64 Harris Road, wife of James Floyd, a member of the Consolidation Study Commission; John Galiardo, 56 Crooked Tree Lane, a member of the 1976 study committee; A.C. Reeves Hicks, 30 Pheasant Hill, Princeton attorney; Susan Hillier, Ridgeview Circle, active in the Princeton Youth Fund and the League of Women Voters.

Edward C. Kopp III, 73 Marion Road East, Princeton's fire chief; John Lasley, Cherry Valley Road, a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and a former president; Anthony Pirone, 491 Ewing, former member of the Township Zoning Board and Construction Board of Appeals; Harvey Rothberg, 35 Shady Brook Lane, first president of the merged Borough-Township school board; Harry Sayen, 167 Edgerstone Road, a member of the Joint Consolidation Study Commission.

Elaine Schumann, 360 Jefferson Road, Democratic Committeewoman, District 4; Christopher S. Tarr, 213 State Road, former president, Jaycees; John D. Wallace, 90 Audubon Lane, former Republican mayor of the Township.

The Consolidation Study Commission released its final report July 25, recommending that Borough and Township be merged into a single "Town of Princeton." Copies are available in both municipal buildings (which close at 4 in the summer) and in the public library.

Members of the Commission agreed that they would work individually, rather than as a body, to promote consolidation. Four of the five Township members are represented on the above Committee. The fifth is Margaret Broadwater.

Court to Rule on Electrical Workers' Right to Picket At School Site as Delay in Construction Increases

Local 269 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers must appear before Superior Court Judge Hervey S. Moore August 23 to show why the union shouldn't be stopped from picketing the Princeton High School construction site on Walnut Lane.

"Informational pickets" of the union have been at the site since early May, drawn there because the school board's electrical contractor, Jaden Electric, is a non-union employer. Union employees of the other contractors have refused to cross the picket line, and work on remodeling the building has been at a stand-still for some 14 weeks.

Judge Moore granted the "show cause" order to the Princeton school board last Friday. The board had also asked for a temporary restraining order halting the picketing, but that was denied.

Earlier that day at the school board's request, the Appellate Division of Superior Court granted a stay of the state ruling that bars Jaden from working on any state public works project — which includes school buildings. S. Leonard DiDonato, director of the Division of Building and Construction of the State Department of the Treasury, had ruled that Jaden was not "prequalified" when it bid on the school job.

Mr. Di Donato had also ruled that this lack of pre-qualification on Jaden's part meant that the Princeton school board violated state law when it accepted Jaden's bid. The board accepted Jaden because the firm was low bidder; by law, the board must accept the lowest qualified bid.

The school board on Friday also filed an appeal with the Appellate Court from Mr. Di Donato's ruling that it acted illegally. The stay, which applies only to Jaden's work on PHS, is to last until that appeal is resolved one way or another. It means Jaden can continue electrical work at the school.

In addition, Judge Moore restrained Donald Kennedy, Local 269's business manager, from photographing anyone who crossed the picket line, which he had been charged with doing.

Meanwhile, school board members and administrators had hoped to see workers back on the job Tuesday morning in response to a letter from architect J. Robert Hillier invoking a clause in the contracting firms' contracts. That clause allows the Hillier firm to warn that if workers aren't back on the job within seven days, the bonding companies will be notified and could legally dismiss the present contractors and find others. The seven days expired Tuesday.

To their surprise, board and staff learned on Tuesday that under a second-warning clause in the contract, the board must give the contractors another seven days to comply. That takes the process to next Tuesday, August 14.

Joel Spaeth, the Hillier architect assigned to PHS remodeling, said this week that foremen have been back on the site. In addition, he said, contractors have written him that unions and sub-contractors have been notified of the seven (or 14) day deadline.

The school board authorized these court requests unanimously at a special meeting held last Thursday, August 2. Board members Ann McGoldrick and Artis Phillips were absent.

"Now the board must think who will do the safety maintenance we must complete before school starts," said board president Robin Wallack.

William Karch, head of facilities for the schools, said part of the cafeteria ceiling and the ceiling of the adjoining corridor are exposed where utility lines have been put in for the new science lab on the floor above. The corridor ceiling is a low one, and Mr. Karch says it needs a temporary ceiling, and lights, to make it safe for students.

Also, contractors had stored the auditorium seats in the cafeteria and these must be removed by the opening day of school, September 5. The floor in the large gym has buckled — nobody knows why — in the corner near the construction area, and gym classes may have to meet outdoors, Mr. Karch said.

He added that he needs permission from the board before he can move his own crew, many of whom are on vacation, into the building to do the safety work.

Committee to Save Playhouse Hopes McCarter Might Manage It

The fate of the Playhouse is still in the balance, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley told reporters Monday. The mayor and his planning committee for the Central Business District met last week, first with Palmer Square, Inc., and then with the Playhouse group. There are two options, the mayor said.

First the Playhouse group has asked the planning committee to hold off any decisions about the CBD until October. It's possible that the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra might be able to give a concert in the Playhouse in October so that the building's acoustics could be judged.

Or, the Borough and PSI could go ahead and leave the question of the Playhouse open.

"I know where I am: I want to go ahead," the mayor declared, "and I will make a major effort to do just that, and leave the option of the Playhouse open."

Petitioners who don't want PSI to raze the Playhouse have now formally organized into the Save the Playhouse Study Fund, a not-for-profit corporation with James Thornton as president, JoAnna Agle as secretary and S. Wyman Rolph III as treasurer.

Mr. Thornton said this week that financial response to the group has been heartening, and that contributors will be notified as soon as the required Internal Revenue Service identification number has been received, so that their gifts will have tax-deductible status.

In a report on its first month's activities, the Fund says members are writing to cities like Utica, N.Y., where a 3,000-seat theatre was designated a "landmark," providing time to organize the present Stanley Performing Arts Center.

Mr. Thornton said he hoped the group could work with McCarter Theatre. Perhaps, he said, McCarter might run the Playhouse as an auditorium for a variety of performing arts, keeping McCarter for the production of plays.

The Playhouse group's resume of its activities also asks why Princeton could not "become the music center of the state . . . All types of entertainment pass us by, especially during summertime. The Playhouse could be used for lectures and serve as an important conference center for an expanded Nassau Inn."

Members also questioned why "the University's commercial side seems to be its only spokesman at meetings. We expected the University's great humanist tradition would be represented."

Mayor Cawley told reporters Monday that he assumed the Playhouse group was "taking steps" to influence PSI. Asked what those steps might be, Mr. Thornton said the group was relying on public exposure, and did not plan to confer with PSI officials.

One question asked in the community is why Playhouse supporters waited so long when PSI's plans to demolish the Playhouse have been public knowledge for over a year.

Mrs. Thornton said the group had not realized how imminent it really was. Mayor Cawley said: "Charlie Agle (a prime mover in the group and former planning consultant for the Borough) knew about the Playhouse all along. I don't think the Thorntons did, but in them, he found somebody eager to carry the banner."

AUTO SHOW SCHEDULED
At New Hope This Weekend. Automobiles from around the world will turn the New Hope Auto Show into a million dollar extravaganza of finely restored and maintained vehicles when the show is staged for its 22nd year on Saturday and Sunday. The event is expected to attract more than 1900 models in 40 judging divisions, from vintage antique to exotic sports cars.

Many seldom-seen automobiles have already been entered. Among them are a 1924 Franklin four-door sedan owned by Henry Kiron of Burlington, a 1902 Curved Dash Oldsmobile and a 1937 Cord, both owned by Wilmer G. Moyer of Dublin, Pa.

While New Hope can boast of many entrants who return year after year, one who sets an example is Joseph Penrose of Warrington, Pa. with his 1910 Otto, which has been in the family since it was new. Mr. Penrose will return this year for his 21st consecutive time (1958 to 1979), after missing only the first show.

The show has grown steadily from a one-day event with 50 cars to a two-day show and approximately 2,000 cars.

Admission to the show is by donation to the New Hope-Solebury Community Association, sponsors of the event. Adult donation is $3 each day and children under 12 are free if accompanied by parents. Senior citizens are asked to donate $2 each day. Show grounds are open from 10 to 5 at the New Hope-Solebury High School, Route 179 just past 202 in New Hope.

Cawley Says No Parking Garage Planned Until Palmer Square Takes Steps to Build

"Is Palmer Square, Inc. really going to build?" Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley asked this week.

"Given our most recent parking study, we don't need a parking garage unless there is more building in the Square," he told reporters at his weekly press conference. "We're clever enough to find the 220 long-term spaces we need. And we're not going to start some big 300-car garage unless we have a firm commitment to development from PSI. We need reassurance that they will indeed build."

In response, PSI vice-president Michael Feldman said, "Yes, we're still committed to build."

He added that the detailed economic feasibility studies were done 15 to 18 months ago, and although they showed at that time that it made economic sense to go ahead, PSI would want to review those figures.

"It is still our clear preference to build,"

he said, "but we've always said that even if we received approval to go ahead, we'd have to re-run those figures."

Mayor Cawley said that Borough officials have been talking with PSI about ways the two entities could share the entrepreneurial risks.

"We're Siamese twins," the mayor commented. "One of us can't move without the other."

Although the mayor and his three colleagues on a reduced Steering Committee — Nelson van den Blink, Hans K. Sander and Samuel Hamill — had hoped to have "the" plan by the end of the week, it won't be so, the mayor said.

"We haven't discussed anything with PSI except the Playhouse so far," he reported, "and we'll be meeting with them again this week to talk about parking, fringe parking and where Princeton Community Housing might be built."

ON LOITERING

Ordinance Up For Hearing. Public hearing will be held this Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall on a proposed loitering ordinance, and also on an amendment to the land use ordinance.

The loitering measure has been requested by Township police who say that loitering at the Shopping Center's Dairy Queen has become a problem. Within the past week, a youth was arrested at the site on assault and battery charges. (See police news, "Topics of the Town.")

The proposed ordinance combines the City of Orange, N.J. ordinance with the State Supreme Court ruling declaring it constitutional. Under the ordinance, the offense consists of engaging in certain defined conduct — which the court ruled must be almost in the realm of breach of the peace or obstructing people in a public place — plus refusing to move on when ordered to do so by police.

The amendment to the land use ordinance deletes from the ordinance any reference to Planning Board intervention before the Zoning Board. Originally scheduled for July, the public hearing was postponed at Planning Board request because members said they wanted an opportunity to review the ordinance. It is expected that a member of the Planning Board will be present to comment.

In other business, Township Committee will also receive a formal request from the Borough to participate financially in renovating the Borough Hall gym for use as a senior citizens center.

The Borough is applying for $22,110 in state funds toward the $29,500 cost of Phase I and would like Township assistance in meeting the remaining $7,390. Normally, joint enterprises are undertaken either on a 50-50 basis, or the rateables basis under which the Township pays 65 percent and the Borough 35 percent.

TO DEVELOP LAND

Near Dinky, Borough and Township have agreed to form a kind of "meeting" or joint venture to search out just the right developer for the state-owned land at the foot of University Place near the Dinky station. About half of the land in question lies in each municipality.

Next week, Borough Council member Richard Macgill will meet with James V. Hyde Jr., Director of Right of Way, Transportation, for the State Department of Transportation, to work out legal options.

Last April, the DOT approached the Borough and suggested that the municipality itself could develop the site, or let the DOT do so itself. The idea is to produce income which will help support the Dinky shuttle between Princeton and Princeton Junction and to provide commuter parking.

The Borough, presumably now joined by the Township, would like to lease the land from the DOT then in turn, re-lease it to an entrepreneur.

Suggestions for possible use of the land have been sketched in by architect J. Robert Hillier, although Mr. Macgill emphasized this week that they were suggestions only. Mr. Hillier's ideas include a 300-car parking garage for commuters, topped by a hotel or offices. The architect was asked to make his sketch simply to show the DOT what might be done on the site, Mr. Macgill said.

He pointed out that if the two municipalities choose a developer, they will have control over the kind of development; however, if the DOT were to develop the land, it would not be subject to municipal control.

DEADLINE EXTENDED

For Sewer Claims. Township Committee has decided to give homeowners until September 30 to file claims on the correctness of their sewer tax bills. The code amendment concerning sewer tax billing was one of two ordinances passed at last Wednesday's meeting.

Originally, Committee planned to make August 15, the date set by state law for filing complaints about the municipal portion of the tax bill, as the deadline for bringing up alleged discrepancies in the sewer tax. Tax bills are supposed to go out in June, according to Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini, but with school board elections and the vote on the school budget now set in April instead of February, the required state and county procedures are further pushed along the calendar.

Committee felt that an August 15 deadline might be difficult for homeowners to meet, and Mr. Nini said the September 30 date would be equally acceptable.

The other ordinance voted by Committee was for the expenditure of $7,300 for a new filtration system for Community Park pool. The new system is necessary because the presence of large pressurized canisters of chlorine used in the present system are considered dangerous in public places and can no longer be used. A switch to sodium hydrochloride as a substitute in turn requires a switch in the filtering system for the pool.

Committee introduced an amendment to the land use ordinance which prohibits the construction of buildings, roadways, or driveways on portions of lots having slopes in excess of 25 percent for single family homes and 15 percent for other types of development. The public hearing for this ordinance is scheduled for Wednesday, August 15.

In other business, Committee discussed an offer by Design Interface to realign the sewer trunk line through property it owns at the corner of Mountain Avenue and Elm Road in exchange for the necessary sewer permits for the development it proposes. It was decided to refer the matter entirely to the DEP in Trenton, which has taken upon itself the authority to make decisions on sewer connections since new regulations on the sewer ban went into effect.

Township Engineer Baghwan Dass reported on the progress toward realignment of Mercer Road on the Princeton side of the Stony Brook Bridge at Quaker Road. The project involves raising the profile of the road and creating a new intersection.

Mr. Dass said that a permit was "forthcoming" for this aspect of the project, but that a project to improve the stream channel to prevent erosion was running into snags. More complicated drawings are required, he said.

STATE-WIDE TESTS?

Bill Awaits Signature. A bill requiring high school students to pass a standard state-wide test before receiving a diploma, is now on the desk of Governor Brendon T. Byrne awaiting his signature.

It passed the State Senate Monday by 31-2, and had passed the Assembly on July 16 by a 63-2 margin.

Under the bill, students would have to meet state requirements in reading, writing, and computation before being allowed to graduate. Students would take an assessment test in the three subjects in the ninth grade. If the test results were low, students would have to take remedial work and then take the test again.

The Commissioner of education would be required to set up minimum proficiency levels for graduation. The first class to come under the new law would be the high school class of 1985.

In Princeton, Director of Secondary Education David Myers observed that present state requirements for a "thorough and efficient" education for all students would seem to have the same goals, and he questioned whether the new measure may not be redundant.

FINES TOTAL $315

For Accused Vandals. Two young men who were charged with nine counts of malicious damage in the Township last March appeared in court last week before Judge Philip S. Carchman.

Richard H. Lemor, 21, of 213 Ewing Street, and James Gwin, 18, of Opossum Road, Skillman, were fined a total of $315 apiece.

Police said the two used their car to knock down eight mailboxes at the corner of Cherry Valley and Drakes Corner roads and then drove across a lawn. The two were arrested, police said, when their car became stuck in the lawn. The incident happened about 4 a.m. on March 21.

Borough Policeman Follows Friend's Lead, Buys Instant Lottery Ticket, Quickly Wins $10,000

"It's really unbelievable. I've never won anything before. I'm so elated; I still can't believe it!"

Still slightly bedazzled by his good fortune is Borough Juvenile Officer Douglas N. Watson, 37 Fisher Place, who is one of 54 $10,000 instant cash winners in the state's newest game, "Lottery Derby" which began May 16. The $10,000 prize is the highest amount a player can win instantly, but the game also features Grand Prize drawings for a top prize of $1 million.

The two instant lottery tickets were the first "instant" tickets he had ever purchased, Mr. Watson reported. Asked what he was going to do with the money, he replied, "You mean what did I do with it."

After the government took its share for taxes, Mr. Watson used the remaining $8,000 to pay off his wife's car and to reduce his home mortgage. "It came at a good time," he added.

How It Happened. If it weren't for a friend, Mr. Watson probably would never have won. He recalled that he and his wife were spending a weekend at the shore with another couple when his friend went into a store and bought a couple of lottery tickets.

"Did you win?" Mr. Watson asked. No, his friend replied. But he had won a free ticket which qualified him for the million-dollar grand prize.

That million-dollar figure sounded pretty good to Mr. Watson. "I figured I ought to go in and get me a couple," he said. "When they told me I won, I couldn't believe it; I didn't even know how it worked!"

"If you don't take a chance, you can't win, so I thought I'd take a chance," he said.

When lottery tickets first appeared a few years ago, Mr. Watson said that he had purchased a few but had never won. With an instant "Lottery Derby" ticket, a player can tell immediately if he has won by rubbing away a part of the ticket.

Since winning, has Mr. Watson purchased any more to see if his luck would continue? A few, he admitted, but so far, he hasn't defied the odds twice.

CROOKS GET SELECTRIC

IBM Typewriters Hot. Thieves who must have a light touch as well as sticky fingers made off with four IBM Selectric typewriters from the offices of the Gallup Poll and another Selectric from the University campus.

Gallup's typewriters, valued at $1,000 apiece, were reported stolen from the organization's offices at 53 Bank Street between 5:10 p.m. last Wednesday and 8:05 a.m. the next morning. A window on the south side of the building had been found open, but police were uncertain whether the thief entered through the window or passed the typewriters out through it.

A University employee reported a typewriter valued at $500 was stolen from East Pyne Hall between 9 and 11:50 a.m. on Monday.

NO SINKS STOLEN

Everything But. Borough police reported a table, valued at $50, stolen from a Stanworth apartment; a 10-speed bicycle worth $300 taken from Hodge Hall on the Theological Seminary campus; a gold Omega watch, valued at $250, lifted from a locker at the YWCA; $30 in cash and two gold chains from a Humbert Street residence; bicycle saddle bags, worth $30 and containing a check made out for $36, stolen from Colonial Club at 40 Prospect Avenue; and a wallet stolen from a table at the Hudibras Restaurant on Nassau Street.

Township police reported a wallet stolen from a desk top at the Commodities Corporation on Mount Lucas Road. The victim said that less than $50 was lost.

Some thieves made unusual hauls. A Fitzrandolph resident reported two umbrellas stolen from a rear patio sometime overnight last Wednesday. The umbrellas were valued at $105.

Some burglars labored relatively hard for relatively little. One climbed a fire escape to a third floor Wiggins Street apartment and made off with only a black and white television set and a dress. Total value was estimated at $115.

Some sinewy thieves apparently tore off the heads of two parking meters in the Witherspoon Yard. John Jackson of the Borough meter department estimated that the two meters contained only about $4, most of it in nickels. The loss was discovered Friday afternoon by the meter collector.

CHOIR COLLEGE HIT

By Vandalism Theft. Officials at Westminster Choir College reported that sometime between Thursday and Sunday coin boxes were ripped out of the two pinball machines in Seabrook Hall. A soda machine in the same building was vandalized and 100 cans of soda taken.

Vending machines for cigarets and soda — located in the college student center — also were damaged by vandals.

POT SMOKER NABBED

In Tulane Yard. A 24-year-old East Brunswick man, who was stopped by police because of a failure to have his name on a commercial vehicle, was arrested for possession of marijuana early last Saturday morning.

Officers Monica Sheehan and Randy Sutton stopped Anthony R. Cullen in the Tulane parking yard and searched his car after detecting the smell of marijuana. He was released on his own recognizance.

SMOKE BREAK COSTLY

To Young Driver. Simon P. Smith, 17, of 52 Patton Avenue, lost control of his car on Overbrook Drive near Magnolia Lane at 9:38 p.m. Sunday, sending a 15-year-old passenger to Princeton Medical Center for treatment of head cuts, snapping a telephone pole in two, and totalling the car.

Police later said that the driver told them he had started lighting a cigaret and had taken his eyes from the road just prior to the accident. The injured girl was Christine Vandergrift of 38 Maple Street. She was treated and released. Jacques Hoffman, 16, of 27 Wilton Street, and Amy Ross, 15, of 182 Western Way also were passengers in the car.

Officer Peter Savalli of Township police investigated. Mr. Smith was charged with careless driving.

DAMAGING MANY SHADE TREES

with Sam deTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Deciduous trees often take on a bronze, dusty look this time of year. Spruce, Hemlock, Arborvitae, even Azaleas, Boxwood and Privet may have a chlorotic appearance.

Too often this is dismissed as due to hot, dry weather. The cause, many times, is an infestation of mites, some so tiny that hundreds congregate on a single leaf.

Mite damage is not merely in marring the green appearance of leaves and needles, but in sapping a tree's vitality. Twig dieback may result. And, in areas where there is drought, this can hasten a tree's decline.

Mites can be controlled by spraying the leaves with a miticide. Supplement this spraying with a "deep root" application of a balanced liquid fertilizer to restore vigor.

To determine if your sawtooth tree has mites, make this simple test: shake or beat a few twigs over a sheet of white paper or cardboard. Mites that drop can be seen scurrying across the paper.

Note: Watch your Dogwoods carefully if the hot, dry weather continues. If leaves start to turn brownish red too early, it is a sign of drought injury. Dogwoods are so shallow rooted that their roots can be literally "cooked" by a baking sun when the soil is dry.

WOODWINDS is happy to answer any question concerning your trees and shrubs...please call us at 924-3500.

AIRS OF SUMMER: Cool flute, gentle strings. The sign reads "Support Your Local Student Musicians" and the straw hat has been filling nicely since these three West Windsor student musicians began playing Friday in the One Palmer Square plaza. Flute is Ellen Ransky, a sophomore at Northwestern University School of Music; violin is Jocelyn Kalajian, sophomore at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester and cello is Suzanne Greco, junior at Douglas College. Repertoire is largely Haydn and Handel; public response—surprise and delight.

Citizen Calls to Police Aid in Arrests

Police in the Township and the Borough made arrests last week after citizens called to report they had walked into the middle of what were apparently burglaries in progress.

In the Township, which has been plagued recently by a rash of daytime burglaries in the Jefferson Road area, a resident entered his house on that street at about 5:30 p.m. on July 31 and surprised an intruder on the second floor. The intruder leaped out a window but was caught by the homeowner.

Police already had been summoned by a resident across the street who also had surprised an intruder attempting to enter her home. Sergeant Michael Kopliner arrested the suspect, identified as a 15-year-old Montgomery Township resident, and charged him with two counts of breaking and entering. Township Juvenile Officer Jerry Offredo is investigating.

In the Borough, police arrested Briar Tadlock, 19, of 29 Green Street, and charged him with breaking and entering an office at 1 Palmer Square July 31.

An employee of the Trenton Custodial Service called police and reported seeing a man in the building at about 8 that evening. Police picked up Mr. Tadlock at his home. He was released on his own recognizance.

Another Got Away. A would-be burglar was scared away last Friday at 3:20 p.m. when he was discovered picking up a woman's purse from under a desk in the professional building at 33 State Road.

The employee asked the man what he wanted. He said he wanted to see a doctor, but then dropped the purse and fled from the building. The employee called Township police who were seeking a well dressed black male, with a round face, slight beard, and wearing a gold necklace.

A False Alarm. A tree street resident could hardly believe the brass of a burglar sighted last Saturday morning at about 2:30. A young woman was seen entering a house through the back door, helping herself to a bottle of beer, and then stealthily pitching a tent in the backyard. The resident called police.

Officer Monica Sheehan responded and determined that the interloper was in fact an invited guest who had arrived late and did not want to disturb her host. The occupant of the house, who slept Magruder in Church Role. Jeb Stuart Magruder, the Watergate conspirator who served in Lewisburg Federal penitentiary for his role in Watergate, will be one of three student assistants at the First Presbyterian Church, New Vernon, starting next month.

Also, it was announced this week that Mr. Magruder has been hired as vice-president for sales and marketing of the Star Dental Manufacturing Co., Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Magruder, his wife and four children have been living in Princeton while he studies at Princeton Theological Seminary. He is now in the second year of the master of divinity program, and will continue to live in Princeton while he serves the New Vernon congregation.

Mr. Magruder was White House deputy director of communications in the Nixon administration, and was sentenced to serve ten months to four years in prison. He was released in January, 1975, having served seven months.

WANT TO VOTE?
Register! Democrats have announced the beginning of a voter registration drive -- although presumably Republicans like to get out the vote, too -- to make sure new voters or voters who have moved do not miss the Oct. 8 registration deadline.

During August, the Princeton Community Democratic Association will concentrate on voters who will be out of town on Election Day, November 6. College students, business travelers and others who expect to be away on that date are being urged to apply now for absentee ballots. Applications must be in the county clerk's office seven days before election day.

Applications may be obtained at the office of Joyce Usiskin, PCDO municipal chairman for the Township, Room 402, One Palmer Square, or through Melanie

Correction

It was erroneously stated in last week's TOWN TOPICS that the owner of property at 9 Birch Avenue, Florence Kahn, wished to convert the former church building into medical offices for her husband, Dr. Steven Kahn. Dr. Kahn is affiliated with the Princeton Medical Group and has never intended any move from his present offices.

MAILBOX

Thanks to Helping Hands.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

How does one say 'thank you' to an entire community? It would be impossible to respond personally to all those who sent cards, notes, flowers, called the hospital, etc., and yet it was those messages which helped me recover my spirits and put me on the road to total recovery.

No matter what one may hear to the contrary, Princeton is a caring community. The First Aid Squad who responded in minutes to my distress call are a superb group of dedicated and knowledgeable people. They deserve your individual support, as well as help from our municipal governing bodies.

We can also be grateful that the Princeton Medical Center maintains a staff of competent, caring individuals. Not only doctors and nurses, but aides, maintenance people, housekeeping staff, dieticians, are interested in the comfort and well-being of the patient.

We owe a special thanks to the volunteers who deliver mail, menus, water flowers, serve in the aide shop and always with a smile.

Please know that I am ever grateful.

Board Actions "Appalling."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a New Jersey licensed electrical contractor, I was appalled by the article on the front page of the August 1 TOWN TOPICS. The article concerned the School Board's suit against the Electrical Workers Union for unspecified damage resulting from the work stoppage on the high school.

Dr. Houston's statement that "It is not clear who is at fault. We hired the lowest qualified bidder, who happened to be non-union. We've been punished for following the law" is most unfortunate. This is not a union vs. non-union issue, and as a non-union electrical contractor, I resent the fact that the Board refuses to admit the obvious.

It is the architect's responsibility to insure that the bidders for all phases of construction are qualified. Certainly a contractor is not qualified when he is not even licensed to operate in the state of New Jersey.

It is not the architect's responsibility to his customer (in this case, the Princeton Board of Education) to make them aware that the electrical contractor submitting the lowest bid was based in Pennsylvania and not licensed in New Jersey. Does this mean that if the lowest bidder operates out of the state of Florida that he will get the next contract?

Why did the architect wait until now to implement the "seven day clause" when the work stoppage occurred in early May? Rather than disallow the extension of the completion date requested by the various other contractors, perhaps the Board should again consider where the "fault" lies.

It seems to me that this is obviously an issue of licensed New Jersey state electrical contractors, either union or non-union. Our licenses were issued only after years of proven work experience and after passing an extremely difficult examination given by the New Jersey State Board of Electrical Contractors. We are all licensed professionals, as are doctors and lawyers, familiar with the electrical codes and laws of the state of New Jersey. It does not appear to me that the hiring of an individual who has a New Jersey license solely for the purpose of supervising one construction project constitutes a valid "joint venture" whereby both parties share in the gains, losses and responsibilities of a project and both have established contracting businesses.

I am very concerned not only by Dr. Houston's statements, but by the fact that both the Board of Letters longer than 500 words may be edited or omitted entirely, at the discretion of the editor. Letters on subjects not specifically related to the Princeton area may also be rejected.

Education and the architect were so eager to award the contract to an electrical contractor not only outside the area, but a non-New Jersey licensed contractor outside the state.

I know of no local electrical contractor either union or non-union, including myself, who was even given the opportunity to bid the work. Perhaps in light of all the emergency services the local electrical contractors supply the schools and architects in the area (not to mention the local taxes we pay), for future contracts we might be given the courtesy we deserve.

I think that Dr. Houston and the Board of Education have misplaced their attacks. In light of what has happened they have done very little to serve either our children or the licensed New Jersey state electrical contractor.

Ethics Bills Supported.

To the Editor of Town Topics: I understand that Township Committee recently passed a resolution opposing the ethics bills now pending in the state legislature. I am writing to express my support of these bills — and the support of Common Cause, of which I am a member — and to explain the reasons behind our support.

There is no question that the requirements of these bills — the establishment of an ethics code and an ethics board in each municipality and county in the state, and the disclosure of the sources (not the amounts) of personal income by all elected and appointed public officials — are a nuisance. It is more trouble to set up that machinery and to make those disclosures than not to do so. In addition, most of us are somewhat reluctant to parade facts about our personal income before the general public. All this is even more onerous in Princeton than it may be in some other places because in Princeton and towns like it there is no real need for it — our public officials are clearly people of integrity and dedication and no one suspects them of lining their pockets with public funds.

But this is a state law. And the state of New Jersey needs such a law desperately. Since the early 70's, scores of New Jersey public officials have been indicted, convicted and sent to prison on variety of corruption charges, many of them have been found to be deeply involved with organized crime. In Newark, Hudson County, Atlantic County and Atlantic City, councilmen, purchasing agents, commissioners, freeholders, mayors, public works directors and engineers were among those convicted.

U.S. Attorney Herbert Stern said, "Public officials sat like vultures ready to collect a tithe on every piece of public business." The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has estimated that corruption payoffs in government between 1970 and 1976 in New Jersey came to between three and five billion dollars. And no one seriously believes that we have seen the end of corruption in New Jersey government. No wonder there has been an erosion of trust in our national life.

Two misconceptions are at the base of much of the opposition to those ethics bills which make a modest effort to combat this situation. One is that the requirement of financial disclosure will cause office-holders to resign in droves and will make it difficult to find good people to serve in the future.

The experience of states in which this requirement has been on the books for a number of years — Florida, Alabama, Ohio, California — does not bear out this fear. Officials in all these states report that only a very small number of people resigned in protest, and that candidates are still presenting themselves for office in the usual numbers.

Another misconception is that the financial disclosure requirement will announce to the community at large how much money a person has. This is not true. The bill simply requires that the source of a candidate's or office holder's income be revealed, so that the candidate himself or herself will be sensitized to possible conflicts of interest, and so that the public may decide for itself whether their officials are acting for the public good or for their own personal gain.

A third reason for opposition to the bills lies in the reluctance of the Legislature to require similar disclosure of its own members. "If it's so good, why don't you do it too?" A reasonable argument. The Legislature should pass an ethics bill to cover itself as many state legislatures and many executive departments have done. But their failure to live up to their obvious duty is no reason for others to follow suit.

A useful and constructive attitude for Township Committee to take on this measure would be to support the ethics bills and to pass a strongly-worded resolution supporting the same kind of requirements for members of the Legislature.

SAVINGS? CHECKING? TRUSTS? INVESTMENTS?

Banking can be downright confusing. You have so many financial matters to keep track of — not to mention all the new banking services around. Who can you turn to? One person who knows you by name and understands your financial concerns: your own personal banker.

Your personal banker will always be there to help. He or she will fill you in on all the current savings rates . . . assist you in getting information about trusts, investments and wills . . . and help smooth out any financial problems you may encounter. You'll also learn about services of special interest to senior citizens, such as direct deposit of social security checks to protect against theft, loss or mail delays.

How do you get a personal banker? Simply by qualifying for YES PLUS® banking — a unique package of services available only at United Jersey Banks. Besides your own personal banker, you'll also enjoy a line of credit to save you the embarrassment of bounced checks and to provide you with emergency cash if you ever need it; free phone transfers between checking and savings; instant check cashing privileges throughout the state and more, much more.

YES PLUS banking with your own personal banker is so helpful, you'll wonder how you ever did without it. For the reassuring details, visit any office of United Jersey Banks the first chance you get.

Wouldn't you like one person to turn to for all the answers?

Previous Experience in Similar Work an Asset to Frank Reiche As He Heads for Six-Year Term on Federal Election Commission

Frank Reiche's six-year term on the Federal Election Commission will embrace two Presidential elections, and although he feels deep regret at leaving his Princeton law practice with the firm of Smith, Stratton, Wise and Heher, he can hardly wait to get started.

A serious man who combines dedication with keen enthusiasm, Mr. Reiche — pronounced "Ritchie" — had talked with friends in Washington to let them know he was interested in the FEC appointment because of his six years of similar work in New Jersey.

"I think the one quality I'll be taking to the job is that I'm the first of the nine people appointed since the FEC was started in 1975 who has had outside practical experience. Most of the rest have been ex-office-holders."

It was in the spring of 1973, after passage of the law creating ELEC, the New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission, that Governor William T. Cahill named Frank Reiche first chairman of the new Commission. Later, Governor Brendan Byrne re-appointed him to the post.

A New Way of Life. "But when I was up for re-appointment last year, I was serving as chairman of the steering committee of an interstate commission on campaign financing, ethics and conflict of interest laws. We were about to present a report calling for a permanent organization — which indeed happened: the Council of Governmental Ethics Laws — and I wanted to see it through. So I asked Governor Byrne if I could continue only through December of last year."

Things will be different in Washington from what they are in New Jersey, Mr. Reiche knows.

"Here, we have a non-partisan Commission. When Bill Cahill first introduced me, it was as chairman of a 'bi-partisan' Commission. I said I respectfully disagreed: it was a 'non-partisan' Commission."

He recalls an example of that non-partisanship.

"New Jersey had the country's first public financing of gubernatorial elections and we found ourselves looking at TV tapes of political advertisements. How much should we allocate to gubernatorial candidates, how much to legislative candidates?"

"We felt Bateman (Governor Byrne's Republican challenger) needed more, so we allocated a higher percentage to the Bateman campaign than to the Republican legislation campaign. The Democrats sought a re-allocation also, and we treated them the same way. By the end of the campaign, you might say we were not loved but we were respected."

Conservatives Opposed. Federal law, in contrast, has set up a partisan commission with three members chosen by the President from both major parties. Also, if the FEC proposes a regulation, Congress has 30 days to rescind it; that is, to veto it. No such power exists for the New Jersey Legislature.

Disagreements within the Republican party snagged Mr. Reiche's Senate confirmation for a time. It was approved July 25 only after the collapse of a seven-hour filibuster by conservative Republicans. The final vote for him was 73 to 25.

"I was unwittingly involved

NEW MAN ON BOARD: Princeton lawyer Frank Reiche was sworn in last week by Justice William Rehnquist as a member of the Federal Election Commission. Five minutes after the ceremonies, he was at work at his first FEC meeting.

in Presidential and Senatorial and New Jersey Republican politics," Mr. Reiche explains.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Howard Baker's interest in the 1980 Republican Presidential nomination affected my own nomination. My name was on a list forwarded by Baker and Congressman John Rhodes to the White House. The White House wanted a list of acceptable Republicans. Baker, of course, is minority leader in the Senate and there were people who wanted to embarrass him, so they opposed me."

"I worry about the next generation: if we don't persuade our youth that we can reform, they'll be turned off, and won't feel that participation in politics is worthy of their time. This we can't afford."

A Mugwump Chairman. "Also, I've been out of partisan politics for six years, but I got caught in a liberal-conservative — I hate those terms! It's much more complex, in reality — fight, a fight which has sometimes been suicidal for the Republican party in New Jersey."

"The New Jersey Republican State chairman, David Norcross, didn't support me. Well, our New Jersey Commission had hired him as our first executive director. I'd had good relations with Dave, but he came out and said, 'I do not support him, I do not oppose him.' He was walking a fine line within the state Republican party. That statement damaged my chances, and in the filibuster it was used against me."

"Some, of course, honestly disagreed with me and I have no quarrel with that. Would I be partisan enough? they wondered. It was a fair question and I said I was very sensitive to the political nature of the FEC."

"Although it is still my hope we will eventually come to the view that there is a better way. The credibility of the Commission is the key to its success, and at the Federal level, I believe that credibility has been impaired. Right now, I'm not fully qualified to go into detail, but I plan to make this the single area where I want to concentrate."

And he smiles, "You become hooked on this!"

And Active Republican. The anxious question about Mr. Reiche's partisanship brings another smile. Here in Princeton, he was for nine years the Republican Committeeman for the Township's District 9. He was Princeton Township Republican Municipal Chairman from 1970 to 1972. He was president of the Princeton Republican Club from 1966 to 1968.

Princeton residents will also recall that from 1970 to 1972, as an expert in tax law, he was one of the 33 members of the State Tax Policy Commission.

"Our basic package on income tax went down to defeat," he recalls ruefully, "and when people say to me they wish we could adopt that package now, I want to say,

"Where were you when we needed you?"

As one of the six members of the FEC, he will be sitting with the body to which all campaign expenditures for Presidential, Senatorial and House of Representative races are submitted. The FEC receives and audits this information and then releases it to the public.

"That is the particular and vital concern," Mr. Reiche emphasizes. "It's no good to receive and audit, if nobody knows anything about it. You as a voter, must have that information before you go into the voting booth."

"This means the press must print it. In New Jersey, we deliberately cultivated good relations with the press. Our work was made easier by press co-operation."

"The integrity of the ballot box is a battle we've pretty well won. But campaign financing disclosure — there, the future is undecided."

"We must provide information to the voters and also prevent anyone from gaining undue influence so that when the candidate is elected there's an IOU."

A Look Ahead. "Limiting contributions is the way. The New Jersey gubernatorial limit is $600 for individual contributors and you can't buy influence with that. The Federal limit is $1,000 for individual contributors but it's been suggested that it be increased to $3,000. For committees or groups, there is a $5,000 limit."

"That's the battlefield today. And I worry about the next generation; if we don't persuade our youth that we can reform, they'll be turned off, and won't feel that participation in politics is worthy of their time. This we can't afford."

Mr. Reiche himself just turned 50. He and his wife, Janet, are the parents of Cynthia, who earned a master's in classics from the University of Michigan after a 1977 R.A. from Mt. Holyoke. She will be teaching this fall in a private school in New York. Dean is a junior at Williams, where Mr. Reiche also received his B.A. His law degrees are from George Washington University and New York University.

"Federal law gives you one year to phase out," he says, "but with the Presidential election ahead, we decided — the firm and I — that I will leave at the end of the year. I've been here 17½ years."

His partnership in the firm was severed so that he might be sworn in as an FEC commissioner. Mrs. Reiche, who has been director of public relations for Stuart Country Day School for five years, will leave her job, also.

The Reiches are eager for the move to Washington. They lived there as newlyweds in

Wilder's 'The Matchmaker' Now at Summer Intime

THAT MATCHMAKER! Mr. Vandergelder (William Kepper, left) has a few words with Mrs. Levi the Matchmaker (Laura Halper) and Cornelius and Berneby (played by Kevin Meconi and Len Galla). All are in Summer Intime's production of Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker," now on the Murray Theatre stage. (John Simpson Photo)

Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker," which opened at Summer Intime's Murray Theatre last weekend, has a lineage worthy of royalty. The farce about a mean and miserly merchant's courtship is a slightly revised version of Wilder's "The Merchant of Yonkers," which opened in Boston and New York in 1938 to a less than enthusiastic public. "The Merchant of Yonkers," in turn, was based on an 1842 German comedy by Johann Nestroy, "Einen Jux will es sich Machen," which in turn was based on an English play of 1835, "A Day Well Spent."

"The Matchmaker," unlike its three antecedents, was a hit when it first opened in 1954, but it has been largely overshadowed by the musical that sprang from it: "Hello Dolly!" For an audience who grew up on "Hello Dolly!" it takes some adjusting to watch a version — even if it is the original — that lacks "We've Got Elegance" and Satchmo's guttural rendition of the title song. It is somewhat akin to seeing Shaw's "Pygmalion" when one is used to "My Fair Lady." One keeps waiting for the cast to burst into song.

VACATION TIPS

Ginnie Geyer needs a lot of HOT AIR to keep her balloon floating over the MAINE countryside. Besides being a commercial pilot she is part owner of Balloon Drifters, Inc. A ten-hour course with her and you'll be certified (after taking a written test) to fly yourself away to never-never land. I tried to reach Ginnie the other day, but she was in the "Queen Air" up in Newfoundland, picking up some Puffins that the MAINE Audubon Society is raising in Maine. How do we know Ginnie? Why she was one of the best wilderness trip counselors at Camp Runoia. As a matter of fact, she'll even fly to Princeton Airport and fly you to Maine in just two hours.

Why Maine? Why that's where Woodland Camps are located and even Clayton has his own plane. If you don't like the HOT AIR stuff why not try the cool air of Belgrade Lakes and take one of the Grant's cottages right by the lake, swim, ride at Jack Carlton's Riding School and eat those three delicious meals daily. The vacation will do you good. Ginnie will give you a short trail ride if you think you'd like to become a "drifter". Sorry but the Ballooning and plane ride are extra, but what would you expect for $35 per day? Now Clayton and Betty Grant are standing by the phone to take your reservations at Woodlands. (207-495-2251). Then phone Helen Neath at Kuller Travel Agency (924-2550) or to fly directly in two hours phone Ms. Ginnie Geyer and she'll come pick you up (207-622-1211). What a pilot!

News Of The THEATRES

Unfortunately, the leads in Intime's production don't stand up well to comparison with their popular prototypes, and comparison, however unwillingly succumbed to, is inevitable. William Kepper's Horace Vandergelder isn't nearly old or mean enough.

Wilder's notes call for a "choleric, vain and sly" businessman. Instead, Kepper presents a slim, attractive widower who tries to act the boor by yelling in a peculiar accent that, rather than sounding regional, merely sounds as if he has marbles in his mouth. His softer side, which is supposed to stay well under cover until Dolly Levi drags it out of him in the last act, emerges all too frequently from the beginning.

Laura Halper struggles nobly with the role of Dolly, a meddling, entrepreneurial matchmaker, but here, too, the role is clearly a strain.

'Matchmaker' Review

Despite all her chin-puckering and sharp pointing and jabbing, she can only shadow — and dimly — Carol Channing, Pearl Bailey and Barbra Streisand.

It is the supporting cast that really excels in this production, headed by Len Galla as the young naive clerk, Barnaby Tucker. Galla makes the most of every moment and line he has, from his wide-eyed awe at watching Minnie Fay (Wendy Savitz) drain her wine glass to his trepidation and antics in Mrs. Molloy's hat shop.

Along with Kevin Meconi, who is competent as Mr. Vandergelder's chief clerk, Cornelius Hackl, Galla is responsible for the high point of the show; their earnest serenade — in harmony, of course — of Mrs. Molloy and Minnie, a ridiculous song about tenting. The play is worth seeing for this scene alone.

Nancy Bleemer and Michele Ferber as Mrs. Molloy and Miss Van Huysen increase the decibel level in the theatre with their neurotic, somewhat hysterical interpretations of their roles. Margaret Snow gives a sound performance as the lovely, timid niece Ermengarde, as does John Whitesell II as her artist-lover Ambrose Kemper.

Alan Langdon deserves special commendation for his triple roles as barber, waiter, and caddy, and Celeste Clark travels well from household to household as maid and cook. Richard Maynard manages to pull off a particularly difficult soliloquy (as Malachi Stack) on the merits of one weakness at a time.

Director Dale Coye has played up the farce's wild side, but all the scuffles and shouts are at the expense of some of Wilder's cleverer lines, which tend to get lost in the shuffle. The period 1880's costumes (by Jennifer Van Dyck and Celeste Clark) are set against minimalist but puzzling sets by Stephen Sechrist — stark white furniture, fake mirrors and busts, and three walls of green, yellow, pink, blue and white impressionistic splotches that evoke a landscape. Windows are opaque while a screen meant to be opaque is transparent. It is a world gone awry — a confusing world.

In a preface to an edition of his plays Wilder writes of "The Matchmaker": "My play is about the aspirations of the young (and not only of the young) for a fuller, freer participation in life." In this production. Coye has masterfully used music at the beginning of each act, during the waltzing scene in the Harmonia Gardens Restaurant, and in the clerks' serenade to heighten the sense of the zaniness of life and this "fuller, freer participation" in it. He demonstrated his unique capability for handling music comedically two years ago in Summer Intime's production of "Cox and Box," and I can't help hoping he tries his hand at a full-fledged musical soon.

THROUGH SUNDAY...

"Slap Shot," "Semi Tough," Hockey and football, in the terms of "Slap Shot" and "Semi Tough," continue through this Sunday as the current offerings of McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema, screened in Kresge Auditorium.

"Slap Shot," described as an irreverent comedy with serious undertones, shows the decline of professional hockey from sport to bloody spectacle. Paul Newman stars as the player-coach of a minor league team who, desperate to win, changes the players on his team from skaters to brawlers. McCarter warns of frank dialogue, especially in locker-room scenes.

"Semi-Tough" follows a pair of pro football players — Burt Reynolds and Kris Kristofferson — and pokes fun besides, at the various cults of est, rolling and the like. Jill Clayburgh is the girl.

McCarter's program also has "Floating Free," a short on the art of frisbee-throwing.

"CABARET" AND...

"Seven Beauties." "Cabaret" won eight Oscars in 1971, and movie buffs will have a chance to make their own judgments when the musical plays Kresge Auditorium starting Wednesday, August 15 (through Sunday, August 19).

With "Cabaret," McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema will show Lina Wertmuller's "Seven Beauties" in which she has Giancarlo Giannini as lover, soldier, imitation bandit and a great loser whose only grip on himself is his code of survival.

"Cabaret" stars Liza Minelli as the corrupt Sally, in the Berlin of 1931. Joel Grey is the decadent master of ceremonies at the Kit Kat Klub and Michael York is Brian, the sensitive student who drifts into a liaison with Sally. The film is based on Christopher Isherwood's "I Am a Camera" stories.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday evenings, "Cabaret" will be shown at 7:30 and "Seven Beauties" at 9:45. On Friday and Saturday, respective showtimes will be 8 and 10:15.

"WEST SIDE STORY"

At Open Air. Theatre-by-the-Lake in Hightstown will give its first production in the Open Air Theatre at Washington Crossing next week. Producers have chosen the musical, "West Side Story," which has never been given in the Open Air Theatre before.

It will open Thursday, August 16, at 8:30 and will play that Friday and Saturday and the same days the following week, with rain dates August 19 and 26.

Michael Esposito, currently a performer at Great Adventure, will play the leading role of Tony, and Suzanne Stachurski, who has played leading roles in "Carnival" and "Fiddler on the Roof," will be Maria. The two are star-crossed lovers in this contemporary adaptation of the Romeo and Juliet theme.

Tony's former gang, the Jets — led by Riff, who will be played by Tim Graham — is feuding with the Puerto Rican Sharks, whose leader will be portrayed by Hormoz Behroozi. His girl-friend will be Connie Harcar. Both have had extensive experience in high school drama and musicals. Police Lieutenant Schrank will be Leigh Shaw and Doc the candy store operator will be Steve Rubin.

Jeffrey R. Holcombe is directing the production and DiAnna Mulea has created the choreography. Tom Cardea is the musical director and scene designer, and Paul Falcona has done the lighting design.

"West Side Story" has a book by Arthur Laurents, from Jerome Robbins' conception of an updated "Romeo and Juliet." Leonard Bernstein wrote the score and Stephen Sondheim the lyrics.

Songs include "Maria," "Tonight" and "I Feel Pretty."

OPERA YOUR BEAT?

Auditions to be Held. Artists Showcase Theatre in Trenton, and the Trenton Civic Opera

"WEST SIDE STORY" LOVERS: Mike Esposito as Tony and Suzanne Stachurski as Maria pledge their love to Leonard Bernstein's music and Stephen Sondheim's lyrics in Theatre-by-the-Lake's production of "West Side Story," opening next week at the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing State Park.

Company will hold auditions in August for singers interested in opera productions this fall and winter.

"The Barber of Seville," "I Pagliacci" and "Tosca" are to be the productions of Artists' Showcase, and auditions will be held Wednesday, August 22 at 8 p.m. at 1150 Indiana Avenue, Trenton. All parts are open for try-outs. A full chorus is required for "I Pagliacci" and a men's chorus for "The Barber of Seville."

The Trenton Civic Opera will hold auditions for parts in Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" on Wednesday, August 15 and Monday, August 20 at 8 p.m. "The Mikado" requires soprano, mezzo-soprano, tenor, baritone and bass voices for individual roles and for the chorus. These auditions, like the others, will be held at 1150 Indiana Avenue, Trenton in the Artists Showcase Theatre.

FREE FILM PROGRAM

Tuesday at Public Library. The Public Library will continue its current series of "Movies for a Summer Evening" Tuesday at 8 with the screening of "Sleeping Car to Trieste." A short satire, "Bambi Meets Godzilla," will start the free program. Everyone is invited.

Amazingly, Pete Rose collected more salary in half a season this year than the entire Philadelphia Phillies baseball team was paid for all of 1950 when they won the pennant... Rose is making over $900,000 in salary this season... The entire payroll of the 1950 Phils was under $450,000 for all 25 players combined.

One of the least-known rules in baseball concerns this situation: Let's say a runner is standing on second base and is hit by a batted ball -- while standing on the base... Is that runner out or not?... If a base runner is hit by a batted ball, he is out -- EVEN THOUGH HE IS STANDING ON A BASE.

Shillabers Monopolize Titles at Springdale: Dave Takes Men's, Kathy Wins Women's Again

Mark it down in the record book that in 1979, the club championships at Springdale were strictly a family affair. Dave Shillaber, 20-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Shillaber of 10 Hamilton Avenue, is the men's champion while his 23-year old cousin, Kathy, won the women's tournament for the third time.

Kathy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. Robert Shillaber Jr. of 241 Moore Street -- not more than a good four iron away from 10 Hamilton. Not only are they the first members of the same family ever to win both events, but Dave succeeds brother Mike, 22, as a club champion. When Mike triumphed three years ago, he was at 19 the youngest player ever to win the title. Now that Dave has won, he and Mike have achieved the first family act as men's champions.

Dave never trailed in his 36-hole final with Larry Sanford, eventually closing out the match on the 35th hole by a 3-and-1 margin. At the lunch break, Shillaber was in front by only 1, but by the end of the first nine in the afternoon he was 2 up and then took the next three to stand 5 up with six holes left. Sanford cut into the margin before running out of real estate.

In his first match of the tournament, Shillaber eliminated Bill Paine, a former Springdale champion, 5 and 4. He then had his closest match, edging Norman Lewis, 2 up on the 18th, before Willie Rosso pulled a muscle in his back and had to default to him. Earlier, Rosso had ousted the defending champion, Scott Quackenbush, the winner in 1977 and '78. That match went 22 holes.

Dave Shillaber

On Lehigh Golf Team. Dave is a junior at Lehigh, where he is a member of the university golf team. This summer, he is teaching at the golf and tennis camp in Lawrenceville.

Others who qualified for the 16 slots in the championship light included Craig Davis, Tom Brophy, Jim McCarthy, Jim Litvack, John Gianacci, Larry McHugh, Ken Dawes, Bob Shillaber, Bob Schwartz and Wendell Breithaupt.

The winner of the first flight was Rob Hargraves, a 5-and-4 victor over Kester Pierson. Hargraves also won from Walter Hankin, Jr., 1 up on the 20th hole; Bill Quackenbush, 4 and 2, and Jack Childress, 3 and 2.

Bill Carey took the second flight, defeating Mike Myers, 3 and 2, Dave Savage on the 19th hole, Fred Short, 2 and 1, and, in the final round, Dick Schranz, 2 and 1. Winner in the third flight was Ollie Houghton, who triumphed over Alan Poole, 9 and 7, Bill Starks, 6 and 4, Bob Reinhold,

Kathy Shillaber

5 and 4, and, in the final round, Bob McCarthy, 4 and 3.

Victor on 18th Green. Kathy Shillaber defeated Kate Litvak last week to win the women's Springdale championship for the third time. Her first two victories were in 1976 and '77.

After losing the first two holes, Miss Shillaber was one up at 13, fell even again and then won the title on the 18th. "It was a really good match," she said.

A sister, Amy, also qualified for the championship flight but was defeated by defending champion Claire Parsells. Others who qualified were Ruth Thornton, medalist; Josie Hall, Jean Starks, Mary Wenzel, Anne Poole, Debbie Pierson, Jan Middlebrook, Allison and Sybil Hargraves, Mimi Frantz, Caroline Schwartz and Shirley Pearce.

In Flight 2, Jackie O'Neil defeated Rose Johnson. In Flight 3, Mim Houghton defeated Dorothy Schoch.

OLD FOES MEET

When McEnroe Tops Lapidus. Jay Lapidus reached the semi-finals of the $75,000 Mutual Benefit Life Tournament at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club last week but then came up against John McEnroe, whom he last played when he was at Lawrenceville and McEnroe was in high school on Long Island.

Since then, Lapidus has completed two years at Princeton and become the no. five player in intercollegiate ranks. McEnroe dropped out of Stanford after one year, has concentrated on international tournaments, including the Davis Cup, as a professional and is ranked no. 3 in world singles play behind Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors. At South Orange, McEnroe won, 6-2, 6-1.

The advantage of constantly greater experience meant the difference in the match, as McEnroe controlled the play throughout and Lapidus had trouble with one of his strongest weapons -- an unusually powerful serve. At the end, he had not registered a single ace, remarking that he could not recall when that last happened.

The week at South Orange began brilliantly for Lapidus when the Princeton resident achieved a major upset, a 7-6, 6-4 triumph over Peter Fleming, ranked 20th nationally and McEnroe's partner as Wimbledon's doubles champions. Fleming is considered one of the world's top doubles players.

In second-round play, Lapidus won in three sets from Gene Malin of Santa Monica, Calif., and then earned his semi-final berth against McEnroe by defeating Fred McNair of Chevy Chase, Md., 6-1, 6-3. The latter match was played over a two-day period when it was interrupted by rain.

An expected final in the tournament between McEnroe and second-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis failed to materialize when the latter was upset by John Lloyd of England, husband of Chris Evert. Lloyd, a British Davis Cupper, then fell before McEnroe in straight sets.

Engine Co. No. 1 Wins PYBA Championship

Engine Company No. 1 became the 1979 PYBA champions last week, defeating the 1978 winner, Roma Eterna, 10 to 5. Winning pitcher Jim Opperman hurled the entire game, striking out 11 and giving up only four hits.

No. 1 took the lead in the bottom of the first, 2-0, on two walks with the bases loaded. Opperman struck out all three batters in the top of the second, but No. 1 couldn't add to its lead in the bottom of that round, despite a bunt single by Jeff Robinson and line singles by Fred Young and Bill Scott.

In the third, Roma's Mark Elliott lead off with a double and scored on an error. Michael Blaxill also doubled to drive in Michael Feldstein and Andrew Bing. With two outs Jim Sharp tripled to score Blaxill and extend the lead to 4-2. No. 1 could not register in the bottom of the third, despite a single and a stolen base by Melanie Nosal.

Opperman retired Roma

in order in the top of the fourth. In the bottom of that inning, Charlie Reeves and Jeff Robinson singled and Bill Scott walked to load the bases. Then Fred Young tripled to drive in three runs for a 5-4 lead.

At that point, Blaxill relieved Marvin Trotman on the mound for Roma. Fred Young then scored on a single by Opperman.

In the top of the fifth, Dino D'Angelo drove in Blaxill for Roma to bring the count to 6-5. But in No. 1's half of the inning, a double by Young, singles by Opperman, Richard DiBianco and Bill Byrne and a wild pitch made the final score 10-5.

 The 1979 Tennithon, a fund-raising event sponsored for the past three years by the Princeton Community Tennis Program, realized some $2,500 for scholarships and transportation to tournaments. Joseph Diefenbach served as its director.

More than 100 junior players took part in singles and doubles matches, with their sponsors contributing to the goal for each game they played. Following two days on the University Courts, a full evening of continuous play was held at the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center.

Refreshments and a skit based on "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" were a part of the program. Enthusiasm was such that as the evening having four points.

Men's, Women's Teams at Princeton
Top Ivy League in Overall Competition

Athletic teams at Princeton University have finished at the top of the Ivy League in overall competition for a fourth straight year. Also repeating as best in their field were women's teams from Princeton, who finished at the top of the won-lost standings for the second year in a row.

During the year which ended in June, Tiger teams compiled a .581 winning percentage - edging runner-up Cornell (.570), with Penn in third place at .564 and Harvard fourth at .562. Princeton's women were .002 points ahead of Yale: .649 to .647.

Princeton teams were replaced, however, at the top of the records for formal Ivy Competition, which are based on contests won and lost in league play. Moving from last to first over a four-year stretch, as the Tigers' dropped to second, was Columbia. The Lions were pegged at .586 to .575 for Princeton.

Yale and Columbia were the most-improved teams from last season in overall competition, the Elis increasing their winning percentage by 65 points to .522 and the Lions 60 points to .560, while Barnard, Columbia's sister institution, showed the most improvement in women's sports with a rise of 43 percentage points to .597. In league play Dartmouth showed the biggest gain, going up 80 percentage points to .444, while Brown improved 49 points to .419 and Columbia 45 points to .586.

The overall records include play against all opponents, both in and out of the league, while the league records play in formal, round-robin conference contests.

REGULAR SEASON ENDS
In Women's Softball, Sweet Jersey Corn, the 1979 winner in the Women's Softball League, finished the regular season with a 14-4 defeat of the Zephyrs for their sixth straight win.

Mary Ann Cook led the way, scoring four runs and batting in three with a single, two doubles and a triple. Maureen Nosal had three hits, as did Clare Baxter, two being triples. Another triple was contributed by Dee Pearce and by the Zephyrs' Linus McHugh.

PITS, upset victors over the Pacers last week, were routed, 17-1, by the same Pacers who finally got their first chance at the playoffs by taking fourth place. The hitting of sisters Flo and Karen Petruska, Debbie Martin and Kathy Moran (three hits, five RBIs) avenged the earlier loss.

for second place, winning by forfeit over Ivy Inn as Ivy failed to field a full team. Community Liquors also avenged an earlier defeat by taking Andy's Angels, 10-6, thereby finishing in a three-way tie for fifth place with the Angels and the Zephyrs. Last year's playoff champions, Sweet Jersey Corn, opened their defense of the championship with a 4-1 win over the Pacers. Corn scored twice in the last of the first with singles by Pam Carone, Bonnie Gutman and Dee Pearce. In the fourth, the Pacers cut the lead to one on hits by Terry Dalton and Mary Anderson and a fielder's choice, but the victors came back in their half of the inning, as an error was followed by hits by Holly Light and Maureen Nosal. A force out and pinch hitter Anne Knudsen's sacrifice fly scored two runs and the Corn defense held tight for the win.

Monday night, Corn came from behind to sweep the series with a 6-3 victory which ran its unbeaten streak to eight. Bonnie Gutman scored in the first on Dee Pearce's hit but the Pacers struck back in their half of the inning with three runs. Hits by Marie Wszolek, Terry Dalton and Kathy Moran accounted for the scoring. Corn scored again in the third on singles by Gutman and Clare Baxter and an error.

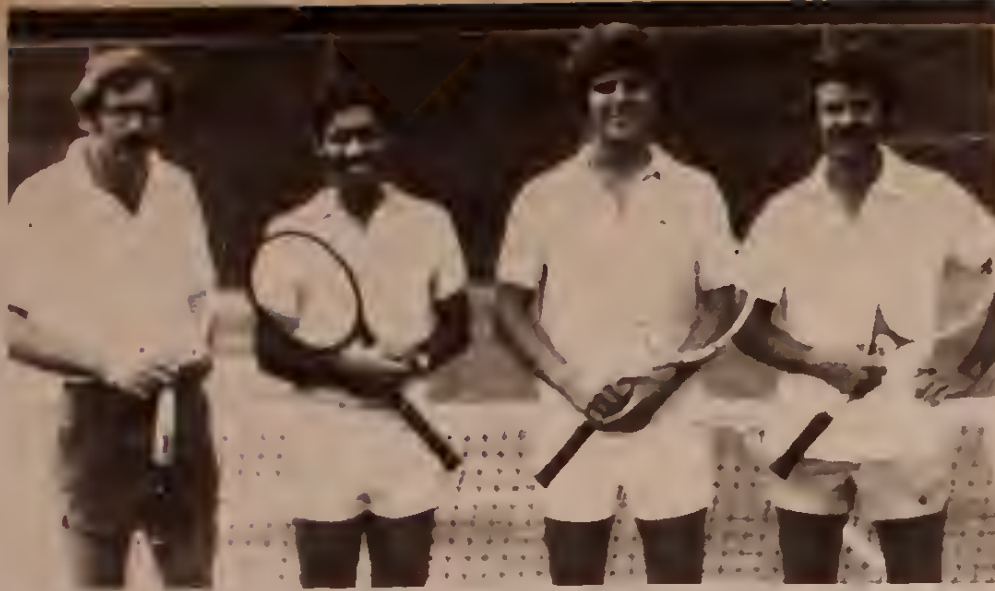

In the fourth, hits by Holly Light, Susan Cohen and a fielder's choice tied it up 3-3. The Pacers had a chance to go ahead in the bottom of the sixth, loading the bases with one out. A line drive to short was turned into a double play by the alert Corn defense, ending the Pacers' hopes.

In the top of the seventh, five Corn hits produced three more tallies as Dee Pearce and Clare Baxter drove in all the runs. Corn now goes into the finals.

Conte's, idle since July 22, when it defeated Koffee Kup, opened a best-of-three series with the Kup by repeating its previous victory as it won, 6-4. The win also meant an automatic second place finish for the regular season for Conte's, with Koffee Kup taking third place.

Conte's opened the game with consecutive hits by Carol Ann Mazzella, Laine Ivan and Harriet Staub, an out and a Cathy Burroughs single, good for two runs. Nancy Laughlin's double in the second helped Conte's jump to a 5-0 lead.

At the end of five innings, the score was up to 6-0 with another run coming from an error and Claire Johnston's hit. Good defense by Conte's had limited the Kup to just two first inning singles going into the sixth.

Finally the Kup came alive with three hits for their first two runs and Conte's led 6-2. In the seventh, Barbara and Joanne Rice led off with singles, Spring Taylor walked to load the bases with no outs. A tap to the pitcher forced the runner at home.

Jayme Edwards then hit a high fly to right field and after the catch two fleet Koppers scored, but the threat ended as Conte's retired the next batter. The second meeting Monday night found the tables turned as Koffee Kup dominated the game scoring in every inning for an easy 10-1 win to even the semi-final series.

Spring Taylor with three hits, Lisa Yates and Shelley Craig each with triples led the way as every player scored and hit safely. The series was scheduled to resume Wednesday, with the winner earning the right to face Jersey Corn in the playoff finals starting Friday night, again on Sunday and if needed, a final game Monday.
